Introduction

The Mass

WITH the publication of the Divine Worship Missal, some information, given in previous editions of this Ordo, is now unnecessary. The Missal indicates when Gloria in excelsis and Credo are to be said and which Preface is to be used. Broadly speaking, the readings at Mass on Sundays, solemnities and feasts are proper, whereas the readings for ferias and memorials are as for the occurring weekday. In the rare instances where a memorial has a proper reading, this is indicated in the Lectionary.

The Office

Psalmody

Proper psalms are prescribed for Sundays and certain Holy Days. On other days, the psalter is read in course, as set out in the Customary of Our Lady of Walsingham. Psalms which are regularly used – for the Invitatory or Compline, for example – may be omitted from the monthly scheme. The Laudate psalms (Pss 148-150) which traditionally conclude Morning Prayer may be used. On ferias and memorials the Laudate psalms may be said either in full (with Gloria Patri said only after the final psalm) or as follows: Monday and Thursday, Ps 148; Tuesday and Friday, Ps 149; Wednesday and Saturday, Ps 150.

The psalm scheme of the Divine Office may be followed. This may help particularly those who wish to use the Breviary in the morning and Evening Prayer, as set out in the Customary. A table of psalms, following the Hebrew numbering, is included in this Ordo.

Morning Prayer

At Morning Prayer, the reading in bold type (drawn from the Two-Year Cycle of the Office of Readings), or the corresponding reading from the One-Year Cycle, as printed in the Divine Office, should always be read. When this reading is drawn from the Old Testament, a reading from the New Testament may also be read, usually the Gospel of the Day, traditionally read at Mattins. When the reading in bold type, or as in the Divine Office, is from the New Testament, an Old Testament reading may be read as the First Lesson. The New Testament reading follows as the Second Lesson. When a New Testament reading is set, reference is also made in italics to the Gospel. The practice of meditating on the Gospel of the Day, even when it is not read at Morning Prayer, is highly commendable.

It is permissible for there to be only one reading from Scripture at Morning Prayer. The second reading, following a responsory or canticle, would be a post-biblical reading, drawn from the Divine Office. In addition to the readings in the Divine Office there is an anthology of spiritual readings in the Customary, to which the Customary references in the tables generally refer. Though readings not part of the Divine Office may not displace Scripture readings, the reading in the Customary may be used at some other point, morning or evening, perhaps after the Gospel Canticle or the Third Collect.

Evening Prayer

At Evening Prayer there are two readings offered, following the Prayer Book pattern. They are drawn mostly from the Daily Office Lectionary of the Book of Divine Worship. The practice of reading the Gospel of the Resurrection, or the Gospel of the Day, as in the Divine Office, as the Second Lesson at Evening Prayer I of Sunday, is also facilitated in these tables. The same convention of italicisation, as in the Morning Prayer tables, where the Gospel would be additional to a New Testament reading, is followed.
